

W J Bryan proposes to make federal ownership and operation of railroads the key note of the next democratic campaign. Don't do it William, it's loaded and would prove a greater boomerang than did 16 to 1 a few years ago.

As Judge Graves seems to be making his campaign for congress on the grounds that he is a railroad man, we would like to ask him if he hasn't used a B & M pass since then. Now be honest, Guy.

If the citizens and republicans of Dakota county wish to retain the confidence they have won in conducting the affairs of the county, they must stand by their nominees to a man. Men with reputations for political joggery, bossism and wire pulling must be given the cold shoulder.

The republican party through its policies enacted into law since 1895 has consistently protected the laboring man in his standard of living. At all hazards protection to labor must be continued in order to maintain the standard of prosperity for the whole country and the entire population.

In the struggle for the republican congressional nomination Judge Boyd was able to present the solid and undivided support of his judicial district. It demonstrated an abiding faith of the people of the district in his ability and integrity and that his many qualities are best appreciated where they are best known.

Emerson Enterprise: A T Haase was out from Dakota City Wednesday visiting his sons, Geo H and Frank F Haase and attending the political rally. H O Armour left Tuesday for Spencer, Neb, to look after his farm there. Mrs Armour is visiting her sister, Mrs Tille Schroeder, in Sioux City.

Geo W Wilts, whom the republicans of this district have named for senator, was born in Dodge county, Wisconsin, on the farm of his father, 44 years ago. When but four years old he emigrated with his parents to the then new country of Nebraska, his father taking a homestead in Burt county near what is now Lyons. Here Mr Wilts spent his childhood and young manhood amid the trials and scenes of pioneer Nebraska life, and for the forty years since that time has lived in Nebraska.

His education had its foundation in the rural schools and in the town school at Lyons until he chose the law for profession, and then he entered the university of Michigan and completed the full law course. In 1890 he graduated with honor, and besides the university examinations, he took, and successfully passed, the examination in law prescribed by the supreme court of Michigan, and was admitted to the bar. He at once returned to Nebraska and by examination of the supreme court was admitted to practice in this state.

In 1891 Mr Wilts located in Randolph where he has made his permanent home. Mr Wilts has never been a seeker for office and it took some time for his Cedar county friends to persuade him to accept this nomination. He is a representative citizen and in the state senate will faithfully represent this district.

PROSPERITY OF THE FARMER. The prosperity of the American people in the last decade has been beyond the dreams of the most speculative minds. Clever as are the writers of fiction and the reporters for the metropolitan press who are continually on the lookout for something to startle the reader, they have not kept pace with the director of census and the secretary of agriculture. No record of fortune building on Wall street, or in the diamond fields of South Africa, equals the plain and painstaking compilation of facts that show the increased values in farm lands and farm products, and the increase in wages and output of the factories where they are gathered together by the statistician who assembles the figures and marks out the simple sum of addition to reach the grand total of our prosperity.

Secretary Wilson is not a dreamer of dreams, nor a maker of fiction. He is a practical farmer. No one even compared him to Jules Verne, but what writer of fiction ever recorded a more striking paragraph than this from the report of the secretary of agriculture: "Every sunset during the past five years has registered an increase of $3,400,000 in the value of farms of this country; every month has added this value upon value until it has reached $101,000,000; that portion of the national debt bearing interest is equalled by the increased value of farms in nine months, and this increase for a little over a year balances the entire interest and non-interest bearing debt of the United States."

This is the short and simple story of the poor farmer as he has been photographed by the secretary of agriculture, instead of cartooned in the comic papers. This poor farmer of the United States last year produced wealth aggregating $6,415,000,000, and more than four-fifths of the materials used in our manufactures. This in turn he has bought more than one-half the entire product of the manufacturing establishments.

We hear of the speculative values in railroad stocks, and how they have increased by means of water. But these advances in values of railroad stocks have not outrun or equaled the increase in the values of that one real property which the single tax advocate recognizes, the land. The average increase in farm values in the past five years has been one-third their former value, and in the south and west this average increase has been more than 40 per cent, while in corn and cotton land it has doubled.

The products of the land have doubled in the same time, and no property of the capitalist in this country has shown anything like such an increase in value. Facts are stranger than fiction, and the dreamer of dreams cannot equal the startling developments of this country under the republican administration in the last ten years, as shown by the painstaking compilations of the statistician.

Republican Representative Convention. The republicans of the 16th representative district of Nebraska, are hereby called to meet in delegate convention, at Pender, Thurston county, Nebraska, in said district, on Monday, October 8, 1906, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for representative for said district to be voted for at the next general election, and for the purpose of transacting such other business as may come before the convention.

The basis of representation is the vote cast for Charles B Letton, republican candidate for supreme judge in 1905, being one delegate for each 125 votes or major fraction thereof, and one delegate at large for each of said counties in said district, giving Cumming 9, Dakota 6, Thurston 5.

It is recommended that the delegates present from each of said counties be permitted to cast the full vote of their respective delegation.

Last June J M Ryder sold 278 acres of Woodbury county land on the west side of the Missouri river, three miles from Homer, Neb, to P H Brown of Worthington, Minn, for $50 an acre. Last week Brown sold the same land to John Scott of Worthington, for $65 an acre.

Decatur Herald: Born—To Mr and Mrs Leonard Wingett, on September 8th, a daughter. Harry Olbrey threshed last week and realized 2,000 bushels of oats, 540 bushels of barley and 410 bushels of wheat. Harry rented 160 acres last spring for $2.50 per acre, cash rent, and has hired a man about one week during corn plowing and help during harvest. Besides his small grain he has an excellent 40 acre stand of corn. He only farmed about 145 acres of the 160. Young man, just figure this out for yourself, and see which pays the most on the investment, laying around the streets and sucking cigarettes, play poker and store away booze, or follow the example of Harry Olbrey, who made a winner all by himself this year.

THE BREATH OF LIFE. It's a significant fact that the strongest animal of its size, the gorilla, also has the largest lungs. Powerful lungs means powerful creatures. How to keep the breathing organs right should be man's chief study. Like thousands of others, Mrs Ora A Stephens, of Port Williams, O, has learned how to do this. She writes: "Three bottles of Dr King's New Discovery stopped my cough of two years and cured me of what my friends thought consumption. O, it's grand for throat and lung troubles." We are afraid they will not be very favorably impressed with our climate. The kind of news we hear these days is, "Ain't this rain awful." "Yes, I wish it would let up." "I hate this beastly weather." "Did it rain while you were at the fair?" "Well I guess yes—you would think so if you had seen me."

Garrett Mason had a whole lot of fruit in his cellar, nicely put up for winter, and now he is 35 or 40 cans shy. Garrett says if the thief will come and claim his property that he dropped in the cellar, and return just part of the fruit, he will be much obliged.

The heavy rain south of us has raised the creek, but no danger is apprehended.

SALEM. SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE. Ed Bodensunder tells the latest and the best potato story.

Emery and Pearl Leamer left for Lincoln Monday to attend the state university.

Madius Leamer left with a party of six for a ten days hunt in Minnesota. People who have been in favor of the proposed Jackson ditch have certainly realized since the late flooding of the swamp that such a drainage would have been a farce and not only the swamp would have been in the disaster, but the whole Dakota bottom would have reaped the result. It is right and proper that some way be sought out, but it ought not to be done in a way that will put a wider strip of land under the same condition. It is true that such floods do not come often but they must be expected. It seems it would be much wiser to enlarge the proper drainage in the swamp and build it so water could get into it and not have it banked up on both sides and impossible for the water to drain into it.

One Quart of Liquid KOAL Makes a Barrel of Medicine or Lice Killer. The process of making Liquid Koal requires three days. The process of reduction requires 350 degrees of heat. The compound embraces every germicide, Antiseptic and Disinfectant found in coal, treated chemically with an alkaline base until every objectionable feature is eliminated, being non-poisonous and harmless. Liquid Koal is made from the following formula: 35% per cent croscote, which embraces croscylic acid; 25% per cent liquid gases, 35% per cent soft soap. Suspended in these is sulphur, benzol and naphthol and other remedial agents. Liquid Koal is guaranteed to be at least 30 per cent stronger in antiseptic and germicide agents than any preparation of similar nature on the market.

Hog Cholera. is a free germ disease, the germ being first found in the alimentary canal and so long as it is confined in that organ it is comparatively harmless. When, however it penetrates the lungs, liver and other organs it causes fermentation, inflammation and destruction of live tissues, furnishing food upon which it thrives and multiplies with wonderful rapidity, in some cases a generation of an hour, causing death to the animal before the owner has discovered that it was diseased. Thus through reasoning two facts stand out clearly: First, that Hog Cholera cannot be treated successfully unless treatment has commenced before the germ has reached the period of rapid multiplication. Second, that a germicide must be administered, and therein lies the whole secret. As we pass down the list of various germicides, we are compelled one by one, to reject them, either because of inefficiency or instability until we reach LIQUID KOAL. And why choose LIQUID KOAL? Because it is the only known germicide that will pass through the stomach into the intestines, and from there into the blood, permeating the entire system, and still retain its germicide properties. It is a compound embracing every practical germicide, antiseptic disinfectant property found in coal, treated chemically with an alkaline base, until every objectionable feature is eliminated, being non-poisonous and harmless to animal economy. It contains cresol and quaiel. It is these hydro-carbon compounds found in smoke that cures a ham, destroying by its germicidal properties all germ life.

Wausa, Nebraska, December 16, 1902. I have used Liquid Koal for nearly a year and find it an excellent article to keep hogs in a healthy condition, and as an appetizer it has no equal. ALBERT ANDERSON.

Hartington, Nebr, December 10, 1902. DEAR SIR:—I am a user of Liquid Koal and am well pleased with it, would not try to do without it. I find it useful in a great many ways. I have had no sick hogs since I commenced using it a year ago. In my opinion it is the best and cheapest hog cholera preventative on the market today. You can use this as you wish. Anyone wishing to know more about this please write to me. ENOCH ELY.

Deimont, December 17, 1902. I have used Liquid Koal for hog cholera and found it all you claim for it and more too. I used it on one that was sick, so sick it could not get up, and the next day it was eating and drinking again. I have never lost a hog since I commenced using it. EMANUEL HOHN.
